Description

London-based duo Hex Girlfriend bring their unpredictable mix of indie pop, alternative rock and electronic beats to V11 in Rotterdam on Saturday 13 March 2027. Expect infectious melodies, distorted guitars and plenty of danceable energy aboard the city's famous red concert ship.

Hex Girlfriend consists of Noah Yorke, son of Radiohead frontman Thom Yorke, and James Knott, who met while studying in London. Rather than following a conventional indie rock formula, the pair combine elements of synthpop, punk, psychedelia and electronic music into a distinctive sound that moves between catchy pop hooks and experimental territory.

Their debut EP, No Golf Cart Parking, arrived in 2024, introducing their genre-crossing approach and rebellious attitude. Tracks such as Gathering Dust showcase the duo's ability to balance atmospheric sounds with energetic rhythms and memorable melodies. Despite his famous musical background, Noah Yorke has made it clear that Hex Girlfriend follows its own creative direction.

Fans of Metronomy, Two Door Cinema Club and Roosevelt will find plenty to enjoy, particularly those who appreciate indie music with a more adventurous electronic edge.
