Description

Celebrate the arrival of winter with beautiful Celtic folk music at de Doelen in Rotterdam on Sunday 29 November 2026. A Celtic Winter brings together acclaimed Dutch singer Leoni Jansen and folk duo The Lasses for an intimate morning concert filled with traditional melodies, rich vocal harmonies and atmospheric winter songs.

Inspired by the musical traditions of Ireland and Scotland, the performance evokes landscapes of windswept hills, rugged coastlines and cosy village gatherings where music is shared around the fire.

The Lasses, consisting of Margot Merah and Sophie Janna, are known for their pure vocal harmonies and interpretations of traditional Scottish and Irish folk songs. Their music brings together gentle melodies, expressive storytelling and carefully arranged acoustic instrumentation.

They are joined by Leoni Jansen, a respected Dutch singer and musician with a longstanding passion for Irish folk music. Together, the three performers create a warm musical atmosphere through close three-part harmonies and traditional arrangements.

Winter songs and Celtic traditions

The programme includes a selection of winter and Christmas songs drawn from the Celtic folk repertoire. Accompanied by string instruments, shrutibox and bodhrán, the musicians explore the rich musical traditions of Scotland and Ireland.

Rather than a conventional Christmas concert, A Celtic Winter offers a reflective and atmospheric experience celebrating the warmth of music during the darker months of the year.
