Description

Amsterdam indie pop duo Ciao Lucifer bring their infectious grooves, catchy melodies and feel-good energy to Rotown in Rotterdam on Friday 11 December 2026. Touring with their fourth album, Sunset Riders, the band promise an energetic evening of danceable guitar pop, playful rhythms and songs that reveal a surprisingly melancholic side beneath their cheerful sound.

Consisting of longtime friends Marnix Dorrestein and Willem Wits, Ciao Lucifer have developed a distinctive sound that moves between indie rock, contemporary pop and infectious dance grooves. Their music combines bright guitar melodies, lively percussion and memorable choruses, drawing comparisons to bands such as Phoenix, Vampire Weekend and Her's.

Despite their upbeat musical style, Ciao Lucifer often explore more complicated emotions in their lyrics. Personal struggles, relationships and the challenges of everyday life provide the inspiration for songs that transform difficult feelings into something colourful and uplifting.

A new album recorded in just three days

Released on 25 September 2026, their fourth album, Sunset Riders, captures the spontaneous energy of the duo's live performances. Working with producer Simon Akkermans, they recorded the album in just three days, with most songs captured in their first takes.

Rather than relying on extensive studio production, the musicians recorded guitar, drums and vocals together, preserving the raw and immediate character of their performances. Tracks such as Do Do Do, Kissing in the Rain and Sunset Riders showcase their knack for combining irresistible melodies with thoughtful songwriting.

On stage, Ciao Lucifer connect their songs almost like a DJ set, building momentum through continuous rhythms and unexpected musical transitions. Their Rotterdam concert offers a chance to experience the lively atmosphere that has made them a popular act at clubs and festivals across Europe.
