When	Fri, 4. December 2026, 20:00 h - 22:00 h
Category	Theatre & Cabaret in Rotterdam

Description

Rotterdam-based improv comedy troupe The Dead Pheasants return with Alive & Kicking!, a festive evening of completely unscripted English-language comedy at Theater 't Kapelletje on Friday 4 December 2026. Expect ridiculous situations, unexpected characters and hilarious stories created entirely on the spot, with plenty of help from the audience.

Unlike traditional stand-up comedy or scripted theatre, improvisational comedy is built around spontaneous ideas and audience suggestions. The performers have no prepared dialogue or predetermined storyline. Instead, they create characters, scenes and unpredictable situations as the evening unfolds.

Two acts of unscripted comedy

The Dead Pheasants present two acts of fast-paced improvisation, turning audience suggestions into original comedy scenes. One moment might involve an absurd misunderstanding, while the next could develop into an entirely unexpected adventure.

Every performance is different, and even the comedians have no idea where the stories will lead. With quick thinking, playful interactions and plenty of room for surprises, Alive & Kicking! promises an entertaining evening for anyone who enjoys spontaneous humour.

The performance takes place entirely in English, making it an accessible comedy night for Rotterdam's international community as well as Dutch audiences.

Description

Theater 't Kapelletje is an intimate, community-focused performing arts space tucked away behind the Schiekade in Rotterdam Noord, Netherlands. Housed in a historic 1930s chapel that originally belonged to the Emmahuis building, this cozy neighborhood theater has a maximum capacity of 89 seats arranged around a flat-floor stage. It serves as a vital hub for local amateur theater networks while also hosting independent music, dance, cabaret, and family-friendly productions.
